preservation. He emphasized the imperative of collective action and informed decision-making to safeguard these invaluable ecosystems for present and future generations.

Mr. Dipak Hrishi Das, Secretary of the Teachers' Council at Government Degree College Santirbazar, underscored the diverse typology of wetlands and their pivotal role in sustaining life-sustaining environments for humanity. He accentuated the necessity of preserving these wetlands to ensure human well-being. Mr. Das emphasized how wetlands provide crucial ecosystem services, including water purification, flood mitigation, and habitat provision for various species, thereby directly impacting human livelihoods and quality of life. His remarks aimed to highlight the interconnectedness between wetland conservation and human welfare, urging concerted efforts towards their protection and sustainable management.

During his presidential address, Dr. Sanjoy Das, Principal-In-Charge of Government Degree College Santirbazar, elucidated the indispensable role of wetlands in our ecosystem and the imperative for their preservation. Dr. Das expounded upon the myriad ecological services provided by wetlands, such as water filtration, flood control, and biodiversity conservation. He articulated the adverse consequences of wetland degradation, emphasizing the need to abstain from activities that pollute these vital habitats. Dr. Das underscored that preserving wetlands is essential for maintaining environmental balance, safeguarding biodiversity, and ensuring sustainable development, thus advocating for concerted efforts to protect and restore these invaluable ecosystems.

Resource person Shri Ashis Malakar, Agriculture Officer from CEV Birchandra Manu, provided a comprehensive overview of the Ramsar Convention on Wetlands, detailing its significance and the various categories under which wetlands are classified. He delved into the Ramsar listed wetland sites in Tripura, as well as other prominent wetland sites across India, emphasizing their ecological importance.

Mr. Malakar elaborated on the diverse benefits that wetlands offer, including medicinal resources, support for livelihoods through fisheries and agriculture, provision of freshwater, flood control by absorbing excess water, and serving as carbon sinks, mitigating climate change impacts. He underscored the critical need to protect and preserve wetlands due to their multifaceted ecological roles and the services they provide to both humans and the environment.

Highlighting the Ramsar Convention's global recognition of the importance of wetlands, Mr. Malakar stressed the necessity for concerted conservation efforts. He emphasized that wetlands are not only vital habitats for numerous species but also essential for maintaining biodiversity and ecological balance. Furthermore, he emphasized that wetlands are crucial for sustaining various ecosystem services upon which human well-being depends. In conclusion, Mr. Malakar's detailed discussion underscored the imperative of safeguarding wetlands, not only for their intrinsic ecological value but also for their crucial contributions to human welfare and environmental sustainability.

Another resource person of the seminar, Dr. Kuldip Gosai, Assistant Professor and HOD, Department of Environmental Science, Iswar Chandra Vidyasagar College, Belonia, South Tripura, elucidated the factors contributing to the decline in wetland areas. He underscored that the reduction in wetland coverage can be attributed to multiple causes, including climate change-induced alterations in precipitation patterns, fluctuations in water levels, and extensive human intervention.

Dr. Gosai emphasized that climate change, characterized by shifts in temperature and rainfall patterns, has profound implications for wetlands worldwide. These alterations disrupt the hydrological balance essential for wetland ecosystems, leading to their degradation and loss. Additionally, he highlighted human activities such as urbanization, agricultural expansion, and industrialization as significant drivers of wetland depletion. These anthropogenic pressures often result in habitat destruction, pollution, and alteration of natural drainage patterns, exacerbating the decline in wetland areas.

Furthermore, Dr. Gosai shed light on the rich biodiversity supported by wetland ecosystems. He discussed the myriad species that depend on wetlands for their survival, including various migratory birds, aquatic plants, amphibians, and fish. These species rely on wetlands for breeding, nesting, feeding, and shelter, making wetlands crucial for maintaining ecological balance and supporting biological diversity. In summation, Dr. Gosai's insights underscored the intricate relationship between human activities, environmental changes, and the decline of wetland areas. His discussion highlighted the urgent need for concerted conservation efforts to mitigate the threats facing wetlands and safeguard the invaluable ecosystems they support.

Date: 25th January 2024(Thursday)

Time: 11 am onwards

Venue: Conference Hall,

The Department of Philosophy at Government Degree College Santirbazar organized a one-day periodic lecture on 'Basic Values Embodied in Indian Culture and their Relevance to National Reconstruction' on 25th January, 2024 (Thursday) in the Conference Hall. The program commenced at 11:00 a.m. with the ceremonial lighting of the auspicious lamp. Distinguished guests included Professor Mohan Debbarma, HOD, Department of Philosophy, Tripura University, Agartala, Tripura (W); Dr. Bimal Chandra Pal, Retired Associate Professor of Department of Philosophy, Tripura University, Agartala, Tripura (W); Dr. Pranay Deb, Post-Doctoral Fellow at the Indian Council of Philosophical Research, New Delhi; Dr. Sanjoy Das, Principal-in-charge of the college; Sri Dipak Hrishi Das, Secretary, Teacher's Council and Dr. Sibkanta Das, Convener & Head of the Department of Philosophy.

Dr. Sibkanta Das, Convener and Head of the Department of Philosophy, extended gratitude to the esteemed guests, participants, and students for their attendance. Dr. Das mentioned that the primary objective of this program is to explore the foundational values inherent in Indian culture and understand how these values can play an essential role in the process of rebuilding and reconstructing the nation. Sri Dipak Hrishi Das, TC Secretary of Government Degree College Santirbazar, delivered a profound inaugural address, wherein he underscored the importance of comprehending and leveraging the intrinsic values of Indian culture for the comprehensive development of the nation.

The keynote address was delivered by Professor Mohan Debbarma, Head of the Department of Philosophy, Tripura University, Agartala, Tripura (W), a distinguished expert in the field. He offered a comprehensive overview of the theme of the seminar, emphasizing the cultural heritage of India as a reservoir of values capable of guiding the nation through periods of reconstruction. Professor Debbarma highlighted the foundational values of Indian culture through various examples, elucidating the interconnectedness of values and culture. He asserted that Indian culture manifests evidence of value development in life through training and experience. The Bhagavad Gita, considered the essence of the Vedas and Upanishads, exemplifies these enduring values, as do other scriptural texts such as the Vedas, Manusmriti, Ramayana, Kamasutra, Jataka tales, and Dhammapada.

In conclusion, Professor Debbarma noted that Indian society has evolved from the Indus civilization to today's globalized world, undergoing numerous transformations influenced by external forces and internal reform movements. However, what is particularly remarkable is its ability to assimilate and embrace diverse features while preserving its historical heritage.

Dr. Sanjoy Das, the Acting Principal of Government Degree College Santirbazar, delivered the Presidential address, wherein he articulated his perspectives on the theme "Basic Values Embodied in Indian Culture and their Relevance to National Reconstruction." Dr. Das emphasized the intrinsic connection between these foundational values and the imperative role they play in national revitalization. He underscored the necessity of integrating these values into our daily lives, highlighting their significance for personal growth, societal harmony, and national development.

The inaugural session is concluded with a vote of thanks delivered by Sri Indrajit Saha, a Post Graduate Teacher in the Department of Philosophy. Mr. Saha extended sincere gratitude to the speakers, participants, sponsors, and students for their valuable contributions that actualized the successful implementation of the program.

In the initial academic session, the first lecture was delivered by Dr. Bimal Chandra Pal, Retired Associate Professor from the Department of Philosophy, Tripura University, Agartala, Tripura (W), focusing on "The Elements of Cultural and Spiritual Values in the Ramayana."

Dr. Pal underscored the indispensability of mythology and Vedic principles as foundational elements for a profound cultural legacy. These elements serve as prerequisites for sustaining a robust spiritual foundation and functioning as a life-giving source of inspiration and guidance. Dr. Pal highlighted that the spiritual knowledge embedded in Vedic thought is transmitted through scriptural literature such as the Ramayana. Over centuries, the Ramayana has served as a teaching tool, guiding individuals on how to lead life and defining the ultimate goals of existence, thereby playing a pivotal role in shaping Indian culture and spirituality.

He emphasized that parents and teachers can utilize one of the most profound gems of Hindu Mythology, namely the Ramayana, to instill some of the most crucial moral values of life in children. Some important moral values of Life which are taught by Ramayana are like keep promise, reverence for parents and older people, identify what is good and what is evil, sibling bonding, guard against vicious advice and wrong company, defending the weak.

These moral values are sufficient to guide one's life towards fulfillment both in the present world and beyond. By integrating the teachings of the Ramayana into our educational curriculum, we provide our students with more than just academic knowledge; we furnish them with virtues that foster compassion, responsibility, and moral rectitude. Let us embrace this ancient epic as an enduring guide, inspiring and nurturing the next generation with its invaluable wisdom.

Dr. Pranay Deb, a Post-Doctoral Fellow at ICPR, New Delhi, delivered a lecture on "Basic Values Embodied in Indian Culture and their Relevance to National Reconstruction." He delineated various characteristics of values, elucidating that values constitute core beliefs concerning goodness or righteousness. Additionally, he expounded that values embody qualities, characteristics, or ideas with which individuals strongly identify. Dr. Deb further explained that values serve as standards to orient actions, judgments, goals, and attitudes, exerting influence on social norms, customs, and traditions. Furthermore, he underscored that values delineate notions of worth, distinguishing between what is beneficial and what is detrimental.

Indian culture and tradition epitomize an integral approach to the individual and society, conceptualizing society or the universe as expanded dimensions of humanity. The fundamental values embedded in Indian culture and traditions are intricate and varied, mirroring the nation's ancient and multifaceted history. These values have evolved through diverse philosophical, religious, and social influences spanning thousands of years. Core values in Indian culture and tradition emphasize the interconnectedness of individuals with society, nature, and the divine. Despite embracing change and modernity, India consistently derives strength from its cultural foundations, fostering a distinctive and enduring identity on the global stage.

The periodic lecture on “Basic Values Embodied in Indian Culture and their Relevance to National Reconstruction” successfully laid the foundation for a scholarly exploration of the cultural treasures that can guide India in its journey toward a more inclusive and harmonious future.

Report on the Study Tour Conducted by the Dept. of History-2024

The Department of History organized a highly educational and engaging study tour on the 18th of January, 2024. The tour commenced at 10:00 AM from the college premises, and a total of 29 enthusiastic students from the department participated. Accompanying them were Sri Sajal Nama, Assistant Professor and Head of the Department (In-Charge), and Sri Raju Debnath, Assistant Professor, both of whom acted as guides and facilitators for the trip. Their active involvement ensured the students had a meaningful and enriching experience.

The destination of this educational tour was the historic site of Pilak, an archaeological treasure located in the Santirbazar subdivision of the South Tripura district in the Indian state of Tripura. Pilak is renowned for its ancient heritage and serves as a significant site for understanding the interplay of Buddhist and Hindu sects. Over the years, numerous antiquities and structures dating back to the 8th to 12th centuries have been unearthed here, shedding light on the region's cultural and religious diversity during that period. Since 1927, the site has been a focal point for archaeological exploration and discovery, with findings that offer profound insights into the art, architecture, and spiritual practices of the past.

The students were particularly eager to explore the sandstone sculptures that Pilak is famous for. These sculptures, representing a synthesis of Buddhist and Hindu iconography, reflect a heterodox culture that thrived between the 9th and 13th centuries. The trip provided an opportunity for students to observe firsthand the intricacies of ancient craftsmanship and to appreciate the harmonious coexistence of diverse religious traditions in historical contexts. Many of the sculptures and artifacts from Pilak are displayed at the Museum, which the group also visited as part of the tour.

Upon reaching Pilak, the students and teachers were greeted by a local guide, who provided detailed explanations about the site's significance and its archaeological discoveries. The guide's in-depth knowledge and engaging storytelling captivated the group, sparking curiosity and enriching their understanding of the historical and cultural importance of the site. Through the guide's narrative, the participants learned about the architectural styles, religious practices, and socio-cultural dynamics that shaped the region during the early medieval period.

The group was particularly fascinated by the intricacy of the sandstone sculptures, which depicted deities, mythological narratives, and symbols reflecting the spiritual beliefs of the time. The craftsmanship and artistic excellence evident in these sculptures provided valuable insights into the technological and artistic capabilities of the era. Additionally, the students explored the ruins of ancient structures, further deepening their appreciation of the architectural heritage of the region.

The visit to the Museum was another highlight of the tour. Here, the students were able to view an extensive collection of artifacts excavated from Pilak and other sites in the region. The exhibits of the museum included detailed descriptions of the sculptures, inscriptions, coins and other relics, allowing the students to connect the physical artifacts with the historical narratives they had studied in their courses. This immersive experience helped bridge the gap between theoretical learning and real-world observation, making history come alive for the participants.

Throughout the tour, the students and teachers expressed excitement and enthusiasm for the opportunity to learn outside the classroom. The hands-on experience of exploring an archaeological site and engaging with historical artifacts fostered a deeper appreciation for history as a discipline. The trip also encouraged collaborative learning, as students discussed their observations and interpretations with their peers and teachers.

At the end of the tour, the participants were requested to provide feedback on their experience. Both students and faculty members praised the initiative, emphasizing the importance of such educational excursions in complementing academic studies. Many students noted that the tour had inspired them to delve deeper into historical research and to explore similar sites in the future. The teachers also commended the students for their active participation and curiosity, highlighting the value of experiential learning in fostering critical thinking and intellectual growth.

The success of this study tour can be attributed to the meticulous planning and coordination by the Department of History. Special acknowledgment goes to Sri Sajal Nama and Sri Raju Debnath for their dedication and guidance throughout the trip. Their efforts ensured that the students not only gained knowledge but also developed a deeper appreciation for the rich cultural and historical heritage of the region.

In conclusion, the study tour to Pilak was a resounding success, providing the participants with a unique and invaluable learning experience. It underscored the importance of preserving and studying our historical and cultural legacy, inspiring the next generation of historians to continue exploring and understanding the past. The Department of History looks forward to organizing more such initiatives in the future, fostering a spirit of curiosity and learning among its students.

Report on Study Tour undertaken by the faculty and students of English Department, Govt. Degree College Santirbazar on 23rd January 2024

Students and faculty members of English Department, Govt Degree College Santirbazar, visited Khumulwng Park and surrounding area on 23rd January 2024. It was a learning experience for the students as they got to visit the headquarters of Tripura Tribal Autonomous District Council (TTAADC) and learn about Tripuri culture. Students left the college campus in the morning and arrived at the Khumulwng Park around 11 AM. The park, which was full of beautiful flowers, captivated the visitors with its natural beauty. The lush greenery and pristine surroundings provided the perfect backdrop for our exploration. HoD of the English Department, Dr. Hamari Jamatia, provided the students with information about the establishment of TTAADC. The group then visited the main market.

The study tour facilitated bonding among students and faculty, fostering a sense of camaraderie and collaboration. Such tours create an environment for learning and creativity. Study tours encourage personal growth by pushing students out of their comfort zones and exposing them to new challenges. Navigating unfamiliar environments, interacting with people from diverse backgrounds, and overcoming obstacles contribute to the development of resilience, adaptability, and confidence.

After that we started our journey to Khumlung, where students were fascinated by the site's aesthetic and cultural importance. We the teachers along with our students got insightful information about the site's architecture, history, and relevance to our students.

After lunch, we visited Matar Bari, where students were captivated by the site's natural beauty and historical significance. Our guide explained the importance of conservation efforts and the role of local communities in preserving the site

Report on Induction Programme 2023 held at Santirbazar Govt Degree College for newly admitted students
Date: 26/07/2023

Government Degree College Santirbazar organized an Induction Programme for students who have been newly admitted under National Education Policy 2023. The programme was held inside the conference hall on 26/07/2023 at 12 PM.

At the Induction Programme, the faculty members along with the Principal, Dr. Sanjoy Das encouraged students to excel in higher education. All faculty members and more than 200 students attended the programme. Manas Majumder, Head of Bengali Department welcomed the students and said that higher education demands equal dedication as school education and so students must take their studies seriously. Indrajit Saha, faculty member, Philosophy Department, gave important information about the National Education Policy and how there have been modifications in the syllabus. Head of Education Dept, Tirtharam Reang, said that students must maintain decorum at all times. The college provides many facilities such as a library and common rooms where they can sit down and study.

The Principal welcomed the students and told them that alongside academic education, students must also strive to become good citizens. Small steps such as switching off lights while leaving the classroom, shutting water taps after use, and using dustbins to throw garbage can go a long way in the overall development of the students. He said that a college's reputation depends on the behaviour of the students, so he expects proper decorum from them both inside and outside the campus. The Principal also gave students information about the academic year. Overall it was a fruitful interaction between teachers and students.
